THE PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Happy June!

It's finally starting to feel like summer, although it still seems like I need to wear a thick jacket at night. I don't know about you, but I'm tired of all these windy days that we've been having.

But summer is on its way, so that means our Summer Singles league has just started. Currently there are 70 participants in this league, so there are plenty of opportunities to work on your singles game, so please sign up if you're interested.

On the USTA side, we have the 55+ Adult season, which just ended, so good luck to those teams who made it to playoffs.

6.0M - Patrick Forden, Alan Roth
7.0M - Jeff Bennett, Alan Roth
8.0M - Lloyd Hohenstein, Kevin Kyono
9.0M - Brian Italia
7.0W - Tammie Snyder
8.0W - Tammie Snyder, Lisa Italia

We also have the 18+ Adult season, whose regular season is coming to an end this month. I don't know about you, but this season seemed to fly by quick. Or maybe it was because I didn't start playing any 18+ matches until the second weekend of May. LOL! And don't forget we also have the 40+ Mixed season starting this month, too.

We had another successful Calcutta event last month, and congratulations to Sidd Nigam and Jessica Rudd, who won it all. This tournament can be unpredictable, and occasionally you'll get a team out of nowhere coming out on top, so sometimes you never know. I would also like to thank Tammie Snyder, the Calcutta committee, our scorekeepers, and all our volunteers who helped set up and clean up on both Friday and Saturday. This event wouldn't have been possible without you. The Calcutta highlights will be in our July issue.

And finally, don't forget we have our Longest Day tennis event coming up June 21, so mark your calendars for that.

See you on the courts!

65+ 7.0 Men's team Sectionals

One tiebreaker away from reaching the finals!!

by Darryl Diamond

The men's 7.0 team in the 65 and over league that Mike Rolley and I captain won our division and are heading to the Sectionals. We only lost one match this season and we won our playoff 3-0.

We were a finalist in the Sectionals last year and based on our prior year experience and the addition of some new players we hope to emerge victorious this year. We have numerous players who have been teammates for several years and the friendship and support we have developed are the main reasons for our success, along with excellent tennis skill of course.

We were one tiebreaker away from reaching the finals. So close!

Working to Make the Game Accessible to Everyone

Kimmel Sadat

Interview and article by Glenn McBee

W CRC member Kimmel (pronounced as in “Michelle”) Sadat is a relative newcomer to the sport of tennis, but he says the game “changed my life” and is constantly looking for ways to pay it forward and expand the community of people who are able to access the many joys and benefits of the game, particularly in underserved communities that are tragically under represented on the tennis courts.

A Bay Area native, Kimmel grew up in Concord and as a child he spent a lot of time at Heather Farm fishing whenever they stocked the pond with fish, the genesis of a lifelong passion for angling. As a child, Kimmel's primary sport was soccer, which he played both as a youth and at Ygnacio Valley High School, but tennis was always enigmatic to him. He clearly recalls one day in high school seeing some kids playing tennis and went out to join them in his jeans, and he experienced what he describes as a kind of “stigma” around the unfamiliar sport since he was accustomed to excelling on the more familiar soccer pitch; tennis just wasn't “cool” at that stage of his life, whereas soccer was instrumental in Kimmel's personal development. Growing up, Kimmel's family did not have a lot of excess resources for extracurricular activities, and Kimmel's soccer coaches became influential mentors in his life, often giving him rides to and from practice and helping him process life's challenges, in addition to coaching his soccer teams. It's a leadership model Kimmel currently emulates and extends through his own work as an adult.

Kimmel stumbled upon tennis again by chance in 2020, at the height of the Covid pandemic. He had taken up mountain biking in an effort to get back in shape, and one day when he brought his mountain bike into Sports Basement for maintenance he saw a tennis racquet on display and decided to give the sport another try. He picked up a big 105 sq in power/spin frame off the clearance rack. This time as an adult, he took to the sport and enjoyed hitting, but since this was during the time when the pandemic had effectively shut down most public facilities, Kimmel began mainly by hitting against the wall or using the ball machine at Heather Farm. Wanting to play more often but not knowing exactly how to contact other players, Kimmel started a Facebook group, “East Bay Tennis,” and while the Facebook group generated tremendous interest and is currently up to 3,000 members, Kimmel mainly kept practicing against the wall and with the ball machine.

Eventually, since he obviously enjoyed the new sport, a friend recommended that he join one of Tammie Snyder's famously huge Monday practice sessions. He did, met many new players, and has been a steady presence at Heather Farm ever since. (Since he does not have extensive USTA experience, as of this writing Kimmel is still a self-rated 4.0 player, although his skill level is probably at the top end of his rating and he plays for Steve Lehmer's 4.5 team. Kimmel's game has improved so much and he's at the club so often that he regularly fills in and teaches classes for Lifetime Activities whenever there's a need.

As he played more often, tennis not only helped Kimmel regain his physical fitness, it also provided him a new outlet for his passion to give back to his community in even more meaningful ways, in addition to teaching classes at Heather Farm. A self-described "goal setter", one month Kimmel saw in the racquet club newsletter that Ygnacio Valley High, his alma mater, was in need of a tennis coach. Always looking for new ways to give back to his community, Kimmel took on the challenge and even though he had never coached tennis before, he found that he had a knack for it and could relate well to the young players; he's been coaching at Ygnacio Valley High for three years now, and in addition to teaching the basic skills of the game, Kimmel tries to be the type of life mentor that many of his own coaches were when he was younger.

Since he's always on the lookout for the next opportunity to give back to the community, in addition to coaching and mentoring, Kimmel also founded a nonprofit organization, the "LOLA tennis foundation" [lolatennis.org]. LOLA stands for "love one, love all", and the organization's mission is to improve access to the game to children in underserved areas, because coaching and lessons can be so expensive and exclusive that the costs associated with the sport preclude many children, particularly in low-income communities, from taking up tennis, and he feels that everyone just needs resources and exposure to the sport to understand it's "cool," so that they can realize the many benefits that Kimmel himself has gained from the game. The LOLA foundation goes even further than that, however, and Kimmel uses it as an avenue to help the participants achieve higher goals in their lives, things like pursuing higher education. Just another example of Kimmel trying to help others become the best person they can be by fusing the roles of coach and mentor.

Kimmel still lives in Concord, where he serves as caretaker for both of his parents, and when he's not on the court playing, coaching, or leading a class he regularly heads to the mountains to go fishing, which remains one of his passions. He has recently branched out into different forms of artistic expression, however, and took up dancing (salsa and bachata) and playing the guitar, so clearly Kimmel is spinning many plates at any given time, and that's the way he likes it. And, Kimmel still keeps his fishing gear in his car, so whenever they stock the pond at Heather Farm he can sneak out between classes for a few casts. So if you're ever looking for Kimmel at the club but cannot find him at the courts, try looking at the pond.

A player's approach to the game of tennis is so often a direct reflection of their life philosophy, and clearly WCRC member Kimmel Sadat has used the sport as another avenue to give back to the community, especially the underserved populations that might never have an opportunity to pick up the game and realize its many benefits without a little additional prompting and assistance. What a beautiful and refreshing approach that is to the sport we're all so passionate about. ▲

"The Longest Tennis Rally" 2025

"The Longest Day is the day with the most light - the summer solstice. The Longest Day participants fight the darkness of Alzheimer's and all other dementia through a fundraising activity of their choice on a day that works for them. We've chosen TENNIS and this is our 10th "The Longest Tennis Rally" since 2016. 40+ Day Sectionals

WC-A 40+ Daytime 40+ 4.0 team WINS sectionals!

by Captain Stacey Blackman

What a weekend for our team!

We came into Sectionals with only one line loss/retirement all season and high hopes. After a tough opening loss to YMCA Presidio, we quickly rebounded with a sweep of San Carlos to stay in the hunt. On Saturday, we swept both Los Gatos and Marin CC, putting us in a strong position — but we needed YMCA Presidio to lose their final match. San Carlos came through, beating them 2-1 and creating a three-way tie at 3-1. Thanks to our three sweeps, we came out on top with 10 total line wins!

In Sunday's final at Johnson Ranch, we faced the undefeated Marin Tennis Club. We were on the showcase courts near the USTA desk when, during the first set of Doubles 2, one of our opponents suddenly collapsed out of nowhere. It was a terrifying moment.

Fortunately, our own Babe Franey — a former sheriff — was on the next court and immediately took control. Emergency services arrived quickly, and the player was taken to a local hospital. We've been in touch with their captain and are relieved to hear she's doing well.

Despite everyone's shaken nerves, the Marin captain said her D2 player would want us to finish the match — and we did. And we brought home the championship. But the real takeaway was the strength, compassion, and unity shown by both teams in that moment. We're proud to be Sectionals Champs — and even prouder of how our team and community came together when it mattered most.

65+ 6.0 Men's team Sectionals

65+ 6.0 Men's team finish in first and head to sectionals!!

by Glenn McBee

After a great season in Diablo North finishing in first place with an 8-2 record, our team traveled to St. Mary's for a couple of days of Sectionals tennis. A round robin format pitted us against teams from Sunnyvale, Crow Canyon and our fellow team from Walnut Creek.

The venue was perfect, the play was good and the fellowship was even better. We didn't win it all, but we competed on every line. We finish the year at 9-4, well done team and great job Captain Mike!

The “Fence Crashers make it to sectionals!

by Jeff Bennett

The “Fence Crashers” (WCRC 3.5 40+mens team) captained by Jeff Bennett and Guru Acharya was established a couple years ago by Michael Rubiano. The team went 7-3 during the season and won their first two playoff matches against Sleepy Hollow and Walnut Country to earn their first appearance at Sectionals. After a loss to Willow Pass, they had to settle for a wildcard entry to Sectionals at Gold River. While many of the players that helped the team succeed in playoffs were not available for Sectionals, this gave everyone else on the team the opportunity to play, with almost everyone getting an opportunity to play twice. The level of tennis and the ability of the players we faced at sectionals came as a surprise

Fall Mixed Doubles

Back in March, we wrapped up the 2024 Fall Mixed season with a tournament that brought together players from different levels. Despite a few curveballs from the weather—and some scheduling conflicts—most of the matches were able to get played, even if a handful had to be rescheduled for later.

The mix of skill levels made for some exciting matchups, with newer players getting great experience and seasoned players showing off their game. All in all, it was a great turnout and a solid end to the season!

For 2025 the WCRC will be introducing a Fall Mixed Doubles Tournament in lieu of a full four month season. We are scheduled to hold the tournament October 3-5, 2025. Details to follow in upcoming newsletters.

Fall Mixed Doubles Results

6.0 Mixed

Brigitte Shaw & Dave Wong defeated
Mary Soe & Mark Keeling
6-2, 6-0

7.0 Mixed

Sandra Harris & Eugen Beyder defeated
Melissa Bach/Steve Lehmer
6-3, 7-6

8.0 Mixed

Stephanie Steiber/Chris Alexander defeated Brian Hennessy/Cristina Tudor
2-6, 6-3, 6-2

SUMMER IS OFFICIALLY HERE!

With warmer weather in the forecast we wanted to share some helpful tips to keep you safe out there. Hard courts add reflection and residual heat, making the temperature on court even higher, so here are a few ways to beat the heat this month. Drink water every 15 minutes, even if you don't feel thirsty. Take frequent breaks in the shade to prevent overheating. Wear sun protection, hats, sunscreen, loose or compression coverings to help reduce the impact of UV rays on your skin. Stay safe and have fun out there!

SUMMER PROGRAMS ARE ALL OPEN FOR REGISTRATION

Summer Camps and Classes are open for registration. Our Summer programs include Adult and Youth classes along with week-long Summer Camp options for kids listed on the right.

Check out our offerings and register at: <https://www.lifetimeactivities.com/walnut-creek/>

JUNE PASSHOLDER SPECIAL

To help prepare for the warmer weather, this month's passholder special will be 50% off sunscreen. Stop by the office and pick up some discounted sun protection and help protect your skin this summer! Offer valid while supplies last.

NEW BALLS, PLEASE!

Wilson US Open balls are back! We no longer sell Pro Penn balls, and instead will offer the fan favorite, US Open ball from Wilson. These balls are known for their performance, consistency and quality feel on the strings. Stop by the Pro Shop and pick up a can today!
