THE PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Happy May!

We are well underway in the USTA 18+ Adult season. And if you also include the 55+ Adult season which is also going on, we have 40 teams total playing out of the WCRC. This is the busiest time of the year as far as court usage goes, and that means we almost always have a match going on at Heather either in the evening or throughout the entire weekend. And don't forget Rudgear and Larkey parks, which are also busy during the weekend. So here are a couple of things to remember as we navigate this busy season.

Garvin Tom
2026 WCRC President

Unless your match is in the evening, chances are there's another match scheduled right after yours. So please be aware of the time constraint. Make sure you show up to the match early, use the restroom, and fill your water bottle before match time. Be on the court ready to warm up with your opponent(s) at match time, keep your warmup short (10 minutes should be enough), and don't take too long of a break on changeovers and between sets (I've seen some very long breaks). Also, be prepared to move to another court when the match after yours is about to start.

I just had a match that went a little long, so my captain asked the office staff and arranged for us to move to another court. After the 2nd set, we moved over to another court five minutes before the next match went on to play our super tiebreak. No problem.

Another reminder that I need to make is to please clean up after your match. Often, I would be one of the last people to leave, and I'm almost always picking up empty cans and bottles, throwing away leftover food, and tossing plates and utensils into the trash. Even if you leave early, find something to throw away when you do, like an empty bottle or can.

If you brought food and it hasn't been touched when you leave, ask if anyone wants it. If nobody wants it, take it with you. And, lastly, pick up your bottle caps. There are so many that I see on the ground. So if you drop one when opening a bottle, pick it up and throw it in the trash.

But before I go, on a different note, I would like to congratulate Rob Corder, who just played his 1,000th match last month. It's a rare feat -- especially for guys -- to play that many matches. Congrats, Rob, and I hope to join you in the 1,000 match club soon. I'm at 735 if you're wondering!

See you on the courts.

Garvin Tom

Working the System (in a good way): Richard Jung

Interview and article by Ian McLaughlin

It would be difficult to find anyone who knows more about how large organizations function internally than WCRC member Richard Jung. As a specialist in industrial/organizational psychology, Richard retired in 2022 after working for over 30 years with the East Bay Municipal Utility District (EBMUD), where he managed a staff responsible for the design, development and administration of their civil service hiring processes both to comply with fair hiring laws and to select the best talent.

Richard was born in Los Angeles and moved to Philadelphia at a young age where he attended elementary school while his father pursued his doctorate in social work. He moved to Riverside, California in 1976 where he attended middle and high school. As a youth growing up in Riverside, Richard did not play much tennis, although he and his sister Eileen regularly competed in a wide array of sports that included everything from badminton to basketball against the family of his father's long-time best friend, in an ongoing intense but friendly competition between the two families that lasted throughout most of Richard's childhood.

Although he did not play much tennis as a child, Richard played a lot of outdoor racquetball, which was a very popular sport in Southern California at the time and helped him develop the motor skills that he would later use when he decided to pick up a tennis racquet. In high school Richard participated in cross country and track, where he competed in the distance runs given his background in cross country.

It was while he was attending Riverside Community College that Richard finally decided to take up tennis, basically "as a way to meet girls", he says with a chuckle. Based on his athletic background, especially all the outdoor racquetball he had played growing up, Richard took readily to the relatively new sport.

From Riverside Community College Richard transferred to CSU Sacramento (stingers up, Hornets!) where he completed his undergraduate education and graduate work in the esoteric field of industrial/organizational psychology, with a focus on research and design. Many people in his field work for the military, which is one of the largest, most complex, and tightly regulated bureaucratic organizations in any country. Richard chose a different path to use his skills at EBMUD, serving one of the largest municipal utility districts in the Golden State for over three decades.

When Richard began working for EBMUD he moved from Sacramento to San Francisco to do the reverse commute across the bay to their offices in Oakland, while his girlfriend Judy lived and worked in Novato in the north bay.

Richard and Judy moved to Vallejo and married before settling in Pleasant Hill in 2001 to raise their children Brittany and Mathew.

Richard played tennis recreationally during college but stopped in 1987 due to a shoulder injury. Richard picked up a racquet again around 2007 to help coach Brittany and Mathew's Diablo North junior tennis team. He enjoyed working with the elementary school kids for several years using those oversized forgiving foam and pressureless balls that young kids learn with.

Through the parent network at Valhalla Elementary, Richard met Cameron Coltharp, another parent there and a longtime WCRC member who ran the popular Summer Singles League for the club. Cam and Richard became friends and started hitting together frequently, and it was Cameron who introduced Richard to the Heather Farm tennis community.

Initially Richard joined one of Tammie Snyder's 3.5 USTA league teams. After the team enjoyed several consecutive years of success, many of its players had their ratings bumped up to 4.0, including Richard. But Richard was subsequently bumped right back to 3.5, where he played for many years on several different USTA teams through WCRC.

Like almost everyone who competes in leagues through WCRC, Richard really enjoyed the camaraderie of the collegial atmosphere at Heather Farm, which included the person who initially brought him into the community and has become a good friend and frequent doubles partner, Cameron.

In addition to Tammie's teams, Richard also played under prolific WCRC captains Glenn McBee, and Sean and Cara Mia Barnacascel. He says that the experience was much less about the matches than about the social aspect of playing for these high-character individuals who collectively have welcomed so many players into the community at Heather Farm and made the experience infectious and enjoyable.

Unfortunately, after several years of playing at Heather Farm and competing in USTA leagues through WCRC, Richard's tennis career (and life) were unexpectedly disrupted in 2013 when he was diagnosed with Ménière's disease, which affects the cochlea in the inner ear and caused Richard to suffer very severe vertigo attacks that lasted up to 36 hours at a time. Richard was unlucky to be hit with a severe case of the disease, and the vertigo attacks literally floored him at times, rendering him not only incapable of playing tennis, but also unable to participate in most activities of daily living.

As with anyone who receives a life-altering health diagnosis, dealing with Ménière's disease necessarily and immediately became Richard's top priority, and he only played sporadically for a 5- or 6-year span while the attacks were at their worst while he developed and executed his treatment plan.

Richard used a combination of diet changes and medications to manage Ménière's disease. And once it was sufficiently controlled, he returned to the court on a regular basis after losing a lot of weight and strength due to such a lengthy period of forced inactivity while he managed the disease. However, his return to the court was short-lived because of the Covid pandemic that effectively shut down all tennis for several years for everyone.

Fortunately, Richard's Ménière's disease is currently in remission and he and Judy are living their best lives. Richard and Judy still reside in the same house in Pleasant Hill where they raised their family and are very close with their adult children.

After graduating from the University of Washington, Brittany now works as a software development engineer for Amazon (a small, struggling company you might have heard of) and lives in nearby Martinez. Mathew entered a cultural immersion program in Kyoto, Japan, after graduating from college.

Richard and Judy enjoy traveling and have visited numerous countries since his retirement. Recently, they took the opportunity to take a lengthy visit with Mathew, who is living in Japan. Since they have an interest in seeing old castles, they explored numerous feudal castles that remain intact in Japan and experienced its long history and abundant ancient traditions (not to mention the excellent food!).

WCRC member Richard Jung continues to play tennis when he is not pursuing other interests. Although Richard is not currently on any USTA teams, you'll still find him at Heather Farm often, as he has a large bank of fond memories from his days competing at the club with many close friends. And based on his professional training and expertise in organizational psychology, he can appreciate the uniquely positive internal dynamics we all enjoy at the club like no one else can. ▲

Rob Corder - "Mr. 1000"

April 14, 2004 - Match #1. It began in Danville at the Greenbrook tennis courts. 2004 was his first year, losing all matches, 0-5 for the season. Rob's first USTA win was against Kyle Jones the next year.

Some fun numbers

Partners: Cherie Charbonneau - 50, Tammie Prochazka - 63, Greg Maroulos - 47, Chris Burns - 61
Opponents: Reid Cooper 6, Greg Kalustian 4

Some notable tennis memories to share

Rob is thankful to his many Captains. He was asked to play on KK's (Kranthi Tappita) team so often, getting to play in many Sectionals and playing in several Tri-Level Tournaments.

Gerry Brown was a great senior captain for Rob, taking his teams to many Sectionals. Standing out as the only tennis coach to cuss Rob out from the sidelines and threatening to bench him for not charging the net.

1980's 1980's: Brian K. Sullivan, Tim Earl, Mike Hartman, Alan Scroggie, Mark Cooper, Steve Hall, Bruce Smith, Steve Wanda, Rick Greenwald, Kevin Earl, Fred Kinney, Michael Hall, and Neil Ross

A memorable win, Jan. 2011. Rob was playing with long time partner, Tammie Prochaska and facing the unbeatable Sterling Fairholm and Cynthia Attiyeh and winning in two sets. And a humiliating loss. It was in 90 degree heat, facing an ancient player who was unable to move. He was 79, turning 80 that weekend. Playing in his final USTA game as no one would pair with him on the Pinole team. Chris Burns and Rob lost. Doug Fish asks him after the match if he served in the Civil War.

Another humiliating loss was traveling the night before to Sectionals in Fresno with Glenn McBee. Resting up in a hot tub and getting to the first match the next day. 14 minutes after the start of the match, a young kid rides in late, on a motorcycle, takes off his leathers after riding from SF to Fresno that morning and demolishing us 6-1, 6-1 in about 20 minutes.

Rob beat Wimbledon and Davis Cup player, Ernesto Aguirre when he was about 80 years old in 90 degree heat.

Rob was Captain of the Year in 2012 for Diablo South.

Rob played on Alan Roth's team that went to Nationals in 2016.

Rob also had success playing in our WCRC doubles league and was thankful for his three great doubles partners. Winning the 3.5 for the tournament with Jason Chao, Terry Hill and Kevin Kyono. But one year, Rob became unavailable for the finals and Greg Kalustian stepped in and won with Kevin Kyono.

October 2020 - On a purple bad air day, playing on the public courts at San Ramon Central Park with Chris Burns and Terry Hill, Rob suffered a heart attack. He managed to drive himself home and his wife then transported him to the hospital. He was operated on, stints inserted and he was back on the courts not too long after. Lonna, his loving wife, told us both that Rob was not to play in excessive heat or poor air conditions thereafter!

April 4, 2026 - Match #1000. The milestone was reached with a WIN in Danville at Monte Vista High School with partner Joel Warford on Carlo Guariento's team. Kevin Kyono recorded the match from his drone! We had planned a celebration and match at HF prior to this match, but the weather was not accommodating.

We did have a celebration at HF on 4/17 which also resulted in a win. Making it special, Rob played the match with long time friend Karl Brown (Since middle school, and were both on the H/S tennis team!) And to top it off, his opponents were long-time teammates and friends Greg Kalustian and Reid Cooper.

So much in between, many teams, many different courts, many opponents and many partners, many playoffs (We used to have Districts, which precede Sectionals). To get to 1000, many things have to go right; good health, minimal injuries, have to be good enough to be asked to play at a lot of different teams (213 teams!) and be well liked to boot. The stars have to align, a lot! Rob manifested all of these elements, embodies all of these good characteristics and is friends with all.

Several of us doubles partners celebrated with dinner at Fogo de Chao in Emeryville. We shared stories of favorite partners, memorial matches, comical points, matches... just tennis. Rob noted how we all came together to be friends

BECAUSE of tennis, with adult friendships of many years. The LOVE of the game DOES mean something after all and means a lot to Mr. 1000! ▲

The Walnut Creek 40+ 3.5 Daytime team is headed to Sectionals!

Captained by Miwa Yoneyama and co-captain Maria Rueda, the Walnut Creek 40+ 3.5 Daytime team is advancing to Sectionals the week of April 28 to 30. In the first round of playoffs, the team faced Moraga A and earned a sweep. Three days later, they took on Moraga B and stayed focused to secure another win. It was a tough match, but the team came through 2-1 after long tiebreak battles at Line 2 doubles and the singles line.

I'm so proud of these amazing players for staying motivated and continuing to improve. The team carried that momentum through the playoffs with wins over both Moraga A and Moraga B. Now they're off to the Sectional Championship in April.

Maria Rueda, Miwa Yoneyama, Mary Soe, Lang Lindsay, Leah Vachani, Kathy Maratukulam, Diana Corbin, Jessica Vasisht, Erin Brindley
